

Intellectual property rules

The autonomous non-profit organization Coordination Center for TLD .RU/.PФ (hereinafter the Coordination Center) strives to comply with the current applicable laws of the Russian Federation concerning the legal protection and management of intellectual property, observing the principles of protecting the Coordination Center's own interests with regard to ownership of copyright products, as well as the interests of third parties when copyright products are used by the Coordination Center.

Any information posted on the website of the Russian Internet Governance Forum, organized by the Coordination Center, at <https://rigf.ru/> (hereinafter the Forum), is the Coordination Center's intellectual property, unless otherwise noted.

The Coordination Center's Forum logo is a registered trademark as confirmed by certificate No. 772578.

This logo cannot be used in any way that might suggest that the Coordination Center collaborates with a company (person) or that the Coordination Center is involved in the offering of goods, services, or events, except in cases that were specifically agreed with the Coordination Center.

To use the Coordination Center's intellectual property, the user must indicate the owner of this intellectual property and provide a link to the Forum website at <https://rigf.ru/>.

The Forum logo and other intellectual property cannot be used on websites or mobile apps that do not comply with the law, including those containing inaccurate information about the Coordination Center or its activities and (or) the Forum, as well as in materials that violate intellectual rights, defame honor, dignity, or business reputation, or do not comply with the principles of the Coordination Center and (or) the goals of the Forum.

In the event that the Coordination Center's logo or other intellectual property has been used improperly as mentioned above or for other illegal purposes, the Coordination Center reserves the right to seek the protection of its legitimate interests with law enforcement and judicial authorities.

Any person who believes that the Coordination Center's actions on the Forum website have violated their copyright can report this using the email address listed on the website at <https://rigf.ru/contacts/> and attach documentary evidence confirming the facts mentioned in the message.

If the unlawful use of the third party's copyright products is confirmed, the Coordination Center will take action to immediately terminate the activity indicated as violating others' intellectual property rights.
